We welcome to the workshop planners, engineers, project staff, policy makers, advisory board members, community activists, and consultants. Participation requires attendance at both the Feb 25th and 26th sessions.

Learning Objectives:

- Understand why livable streets have become the new standard for green communities
- Incorporate best practices regarding lane width, signage and signalization
- Increase capacity and safety in street design even while adding green space
- Accommodate pedestrians and bicyclists using low-cost methods
- Adopt tools that build and gain community support for livable streets projects
- Understand the land use and transportation connection in livable street and boulevard projects
- Prepare for the future -- LEED certified Streets?
